Synopsis

"DAYS OF '49"

Chapter No.9

"A RIDE OF PERIL"

With the exhibition of the "Bear Flag" by Sonora and "Cal", the people of Sonoma decide to overthrow the Mexican governor and declare California a Free State.

Judge Coleman advises Sutter and Sonora to go to the Governor ~~and~~ Vallejo and have the land grant renewed in Sonora's name. They ride off to Vallejo Fort to see the Governor, but he will not see them until the following morning.

"Cal" and his Sonoma followers ride to Vallejo Fort to attack it. Sutter and Sonora have been given quarters overnight in the second story of the Fort and when the attack is made the noise arouses them and they watch the battle from the open doorway overlooking the courtyard.

At first the attackers are repulsed and obliged to withdraw, they again attack but are unable to force the gate or go over the walls. Arabella and Marsdon have followed on horseback and are watching the scene at a distance.

"Cal" has been wounded and is lying on the ground clutching the staff of the "Bear Flag" which he has been carrying. Marsdon rushes forward and takes command and lights a powder mine on the outside of the gate.

In the meantime Sonora and Sutter are watching the battle from the open doorway. Sonora sees that the gate must be opened and noticing a rope in the doorway she clutches it and unexpectedly leaps and lights on the back of a horse some feet away from the wall and gallops to the gate. Dismounting, she takes one end of the heavy bar out of its socket and is just lifting the other end when Marsdon's mind-explodes and blows the gate on top of her.
